

Plan Commission vote questioned

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A former Plan Commission member voted for a rezoning petition that he had signed.

A commission member until he resigned May 7, Andrew Gitchoff voted Feb. 12 for a petition to rezone 2021 Johnson Road from residential to commercial. After the vote, construction work began on an office building owned by Dr. George Wilkins.

Gitchoff signed two Planning Commission documents on Jan. 27 — a petition to amend the city's zoning ordinance to allow the rezoning, and a "Certificate of Zoning Compliance." The documents state Gitchoff, Wilkins and B.C. Gitchoff own two land parcels involved in the rezoning.

On Feb. 12, Gitchoff, commission members and commission Chairman Phillip Theis voted to rezone the property.

Both parcels were needed to meet a one-acre minimum requirement for rezoning to "neighborhood commercial" from residential.

When the petition was presented to the commission Feb. 12, "Mr. Gitchoff stated that he has no interest in the property; he delivered a deed of conveyance 2 years ago to Mr. B. C. Gitchoff," according to Plan Commission minutes.

The commission's recommendation to rezone was approved by the City Council.

Gitchoff said that he was not a co-owner of either parcel when he signed the petition documents

Perjak proposes special permits

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A proposal to grant special use zoning permits was made Tuesday by 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak.

Perjak made the proposal at a special meeting of the Granite City Council held to discuss zoning issues.

The city's zoning ordinance, adopted in 1981, does not currently allow special use permits.

Under Perjak's proposal, the council could grant businesses special use permits with a 2/3 majority vote of the City Plan Commission and the City Council.

Perjak's plan is in response to recent discussions about changing the city's minimum area requirements in order to reclassify residential areas for small business use.

Plan Commission Chairman Phillip Theis and the council's Zoning, Planning and Annexation Committee Chairman Jeff Worthen have advocated eliminating a zoning law which requires businesses to have at least one acre before a proposed business location can be reclassified from residential to "neighborhood commercial" use.

This has said the requirement is keeping small businesses out of the city.

Perjak and other aldermen have said that eliminating the requirement would leave residents with no say on what goes into their neighborhoods.

Perjak said her proposal would allow businesses in areas and that he did not benefit by voting for the petition.

He said he was asked by Wilkins and Gitchoff to sign the petition. He also said Theis told him it would not be improper to vote on the rezoning.

"I don't own part of that property. I don't know why I even signed it. Somebody gave it to me to sign and I signed it," Gitchoff said.

Gitchoff said it was explained to him that without full disclosure the petition might have a problem if he turned out to be one of the owners.

"If I didn't sign it and I was an owner, the petition would have been in trouble," Gitchoff said.

Gitchoff said he asked Gitchoff to sign the documents for disclosure purposes. He said Gitchoff's name had been associated with one parcel.

County records show Gitchoff deeded his 50 percent ownership of the parcel in 1983 to Granite City Trust and Savings, now

Central Bank of Granite City. The property, in which Gitchoff had the other half-interest, borders the office building property.

A trust deed was arranged. It is not known who is listed in the trust, but Gitchoff said he is not. The county does not provide names of owners of property held in trust.

This said he was not aware that Gitchoff had signed the petition. He said he asked Gitchoff if he had a share in the property and that Gitchoff said he did not.

This also said he thought Gitchoff's signature on the petition was "strange."

"That's a strange circumstance. I would like to get to the bottom of this, too," Theis said.

This said it would not be improper for a commission member to sign rezoning requests, but a member should not vote on property he has requested to be rezoned. He said he may propose a requirement to have all members identify their property interests, including trust interests, on property coming before the commission for rezoning.

City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said he would investigate Gitchoff's vote.

"At a minimum, it has an air of impropriety. He shouldn't have voted on it. There's no question about it," Goldenberg said.

Goldenberg said the petition may be invalid if the property information was incorrect.

Cruse considers new comptroller

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — The deputy comptroller is being considered to replace the comptroller, Mayor Von Dee Cruse said Friday.

Comptroller Joe Miklovic quit Sept. 4 to take a higher-paying job with the St. Louis Police Department.

Kim MacTaggart, 33, is a logical choice to replace Miklovic, Cruse said.

Cruse said the deputy comptroller position was created to help the comptroller and to keep the office operating if something happened to the comptroller. When Miklovic quit, it helped prove the worth of hiring an assistant, Cruse said.

"It was one of the smartest moves we made," Cruse said.

Hired as deputy comptroller in June 1986, MacTaggart said he would take the comptroller job if he gets a firm offer.

"I enjoy very much working at home here in Granite City," MacTaggart said Friday. "I've been here a year and Mr. Miklovic has been very open with what's going on with what he's been doing."

Cruse said he did not want Miklovic to leave. Miklovic, the city's highest paid official at $42,000 per year, will make $60,000 per year as comptroller with the St. Louis Police Department.

Miklovic, 38, of St. Louis, said a reason he decided to leave was a lack of job security in Granite City. Street Superintendent Mac Warfield, when running in 1985 for mayor, said he wanted only people from Granite City to work for the city. Miklovic said politics put his job on the line.

Warfield reaffirmed his belief Friday that city employees should live here.

"I think they should live in the city and take a lot of pride in it," Warfield said, but added he did not think a 1985 campaign statement could have been a big factor in Miklovic's decision to quit. "I think it was an extra $18,000."

A former alderman, Warfield said he was among those who voted in 1981 to hire Miklovic.

Pontoon OKs new housing

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Trustees approved a preliminary engineering plan for new housing construction at Lakeshire Subdivision at Tuesday's meeting.

The addition is south of Pontoon Road and east of Grigsby Junior High School and has access from Rodney and Kathy drives.

J.E. Stuart and Associates Engineering Inc. prepared the plan for Jim Green Construction Co.

Plans call for construction of duplex-design housing on 16 lots.

Zoned currently MR-2 for multi-family dwellings, the Lakeshire area is served by the Pontoon Beach Water District and Metro East Water District, the proposal stated.

The construction site for the new housing is not far from property discussed at the Aug. 25 meeting.

At that time, trustees upheld a recommendation by the Zoning Board of Appeals to deny a special use permit to locate more than 100 mobile homes on property at 380 Rodney Drive.

James C. Green sought the permit, which was refused due to the possibility of future drainage and sewer problems in the area.

Reinforcing the board's decision was the number of objections heard from area residents concerned about possible lowering of property values, which they said would place a heavier burden on community services and taxpayers with the addition of a large mobile home park.

In other action, the board agreed to purchase two large aerial photographs of the Pontoon Beach area for display in the board room and police department.

The exceptionally clear prints show village streets and structures in detail, said Trustee Carl Hackney. Even vehicles traveling on Illinois 111 are visible and individual homes are "crystal clear," he said.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is providing 50 information booklets about the area to the village without cost

Paper to help United Way

GRANITE CITY — The Press-Record/Journal, in cooperation with the Suburban Newspapers of Greater St. Louis, during the next several weeks will wrap newspapers in plastic bags bearing the United Way symbol and the slogan, "It brings out the best in all of us."

The bags will be used whenever there is damp weather, said Rick Jarvis, publisher of East Side Publications. The newspaper is part of the publishing company based in Granite City.

"It's a great public awareness arousing thing," said Janet Quarton, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

"I think it's wonderful. I think it's of benefit to people to be reminded."

Jarvis said, "This is an effort on our part to help publicize the United Way by getting the name and logo in front of as many people as possible. This is a very important event and we're glad to help the cause any way we can."

The United Way drive began Sept. 10 in Granite City with a kickoff breakfast at the Granite City Township Hall. Approximately 300 persons attended the event, where the $310,000 goal for this year was announced.

New man heads housing agency

GRANITE CITY — An O'Fallon man is the new executive director of the Granite City Housing Authority.

Michael J. McKoon, 39, was unanimously appointed to the post at a meeting of the authority's board of commissioners on Aug. 31, board chairman Earl Thompson said Thursday.

McKoon has served as comptroller of the East St. Louis Housing Authority for four years. He was previously the comptroller of the Bloomington Housing Authority for five years.

McKoon graduated from Illinois State University in 1971 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Newspaper holds contest

GRANITE CITY — To recognize National Newspaper Week, Oct. 4-10, this and the other newspapers in East Side Publications are sponsoring an essay contest that offers cash prizes.

"The contest, along with National Newspaper Week, is designed to get people thinking about the role newspapers play in our society," said Valerie Evenden, a reporter for the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

The contest theme is, "In what ways do local newspapers serve you?" Prizes of $50, $25, and $12.50 will be awarded in each of two categories: adults over age 18, and students in either junior or senior high schools.

Essays cannot exceed 500 words and should be typed or written legibly. Submissions will be judged on originality, punctuation, grammar and spelling. The publishing company's employees and their family members are ineligible.

The deadline for entries is Sept. 23, but earlier entries are urged, said Bill Bagby, contest organizer with the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

All submissions should be mailed to the Press-Record/Journal, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, 62040. Entries will also be accepted at the newspaper's front office at 1815 Delmar in Granite City.

Winning entries will be published in each newspaper during National Newspaper Week.

The judging panel will include at least three editorial employees of East Side Publications, which consists of the East St. Louis News-Journal, Cahokia-DuPo Journal and the Press-Record/Journal.

For further information, call 877-7700 in Granite City, or 332-6000 in Cahokia.

Women in the Workplace
Topic of Gateway meeting

Mary Lou Malwitz, associate vice president of A.G. Edwards & Sons and manager of the Word Processing Department, was the featured speaker at the Gateway Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting hosted at Charlie's Restaurant.

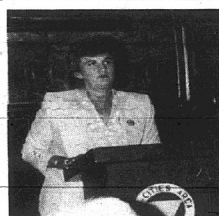

She also has held offices in the BPW organization, including past Illinois State Foundation chairman, past District XIV director and past president of the Collinsville BPW. She is serving as Illinois State program chairman.

Malwitz spoke on "The Myth of Equal Opportunity," telling members that although great advances have been made in the past decade for working women, there is still an increase in the number of women at the poverty level, she said.

"Sixty-seven percent of all women earn less than $15,000 and only 2 percent of all women earn more than $30,000, while 35 percent men earn less than $15,000 and 21.9 percent earn over $30,000, she said.

"Legal actions of lawsuits and government enforcement of laws for equal opportunity have expanded opportunities for women to be treated equal with men in the job market," the speaker said. "There is still much to be done to achieve economic equality for working women, for the numbers of women who work will continue to increase markedly reaching between $6.5 and $9.9 million by the year 1997."

Women do not work just for the privilege or the extras — it is to survive. Women need to build an increasing powerful voice to advocate an end to discrimination; take concrete steps to expand women's job opportunities; and work toward the major trend for the future and will always be quite a wage gap between women and men, the speaker said.

President LaVelle Stephens introduced Betty Kelly, second vice president and district advisor of District XIV and a member of the expansion committee, and Marilyn Bromagen, also a District XIV advisor, as guests for the evening.

Stephens announced the monthly President's Council meeting was held at the Ramada Inn in Fairview Heights and encouraged members to attend the seminar Sept. 19 on Communication Skills at the Springfield Hilton.

Guests congratulated the organization on its 31st anniversary.

Other guests included Bonnie Campbell, Rosie Allen, Terry Hansenman, Mary Wieschen and Hope Winkmeier.

The proposed budget for 1987-88 was presented by Finance Chairman Ollie Derr and was accepted.

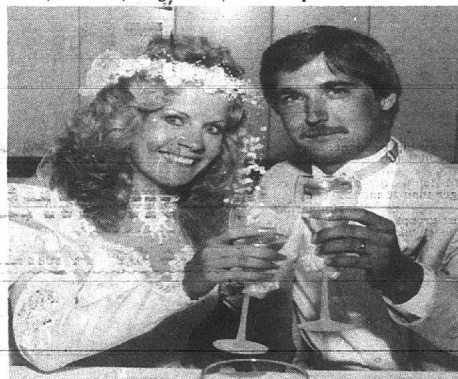

The president said the Sept. 21 meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Community Club at the Granite City Army Installation, with Betty Nugent as chairman. Nugent will be in charge of the program on "Community Affairs" and will feature a speaker from the Phoenix Crisis Center. Reservations may be made by calling Nugent at 876-6339.

Arson suspected in garage, trash fires

Arson is suspected in two fires on Maple Street Sept. 9. Granite City firefighters at 2:12 a.m. Wednesday extinguished a fire that caused $1,000 damage to the garage and the attic of a garage owned by Chuck Pyles, 1651 Maple Ave. Firemen found a trash-filled gallon metal container underneath a wooden table where the fire started. Pyles said the container had not been there before the fire, and there had been no trash left on the table. Firefighters also found a small pile of trash on fire at the southeast corner of Pyles' garage. At the same time, a small trash fire was discovered inside the garage of Ann Gonzales, 1649 Maple.

State earmarks funds for MEGSI
—SPRINGFIELD—The Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois is now expected to get nearly $60,000 in federal funds.
The grant will more than make up for a reduction in state funding of $22,000 this summer for the anti-drug investigators.

Tractor-trailer strikes autos at rail crossing

A four-vehicle accident on Chessen Lane in Alton Aug. 25 involved a tractor-trailer truck hauling 42,000 pounds of steel, not a car as previously reported.
George W. Barnett, 39, of 2014 Missouri Ave., was driving the truck leased to Illinois Freight, East Alton. Barnett was issued a ticket for improper brakes after he allegedly hit the rear of an auto stopped at a railroad crossing and caused a chain reaction. According to Barnett, the train had already passed the crossing prior to the accident.
Barnett's truck hit the rear of the auto driven by Phillip Ellis, of Godfrey. The auto then struck the vehicle of Terry Saylor, of Wood River, whose car hit a truck. No injuries were reported.

Some additional communities in St. Clair County have joined this year. Meetings are planned to try to increase Madison County participation.
Municipalities with under 10,000 population can now join MEGSI by contributing $1 per capita, under a bylaws change. The larger communities temporarily loan an officer to the unit and continue to pay his salary.
The federal money comes from the new Anti-Drug Abuse Act. Illinois was the first state to qualify for such funding.
MEGSI had received $105,000 in state funding each of the past few years, but that was halved by Gov. James Thompson's veto cuts in July.

Schooley interested in Supreme Court seat

GRANITE CITY — Local attorney William Schooley is interested in serving on the Illinois Supreme Court, but said he probably won't be appointed to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Justice Joseph Goldenhersh.

"I don't think I'll be considered for it," Schooley said Friday.

Goldenhersh, 72, of Belleville resigned effective Sept. 12 due to health reasons. He suffers from Parkinson's Disease and had been absent from oral argument hearings of the court in recent months. The other six justices may appoint an interim justice to sit on the court until a new justice is elected in November 1988.

Schooley, who serves as attorney for Granite City School District 9 and Granite City Township, was named last week in the Chicago Daily Law Bulletin as a possible replacement for Goldenhersh, according to published sources.

Schooley has had an interest in serving on the supreme court for "a long while," he said. He said he would probably have a better chance of becoming a justice through the election process and is keeping an "open option" on running for the seat next year.

"There are a lot of good candidates and there will be a lot of them in the race," he said.

A misconduct complaint was filed in 1984 against him and attorneys Jon Carlson, L. Thomas Lakin, Morris Chapman, Ross Scroggins and William Beatty by the Illinois Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission. The complaint accuses them of active efforts in the 1980 judicial election campaign against the retention of Circuit Judges Victor Mospaty and John DeLaurenti of the Third Circuit. The two judges were defeated by voters, but DeLaurenti later regained judgeship.

"I don't know if it would make any difference," Schooley said of the complaint, "but it should be considered."

Others mentioned as replacements for Goldenhersh include Fifth District Appellate Justice Moses Harrison II of Collinsville and Horace Calvo, a former Granite City resident, who has experience in the Illinois House of Representatives, is a Madison County circuit judge serving as an interim appellate judge.

Edwards, a possible appointee is St. Clair County Circuit Judge William Starnes, Madison County Circuit Judge Charles Chapman, a former local resident, and Fifth District Appellate Judge John Kams Jr. and George Kassaban Jr.

Chapman and Harrison couldn't be reached for comment Friday. Calvo said last week he would "perhaps have an interest" in running for the Supreme Court next year.

Madison County Chief Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill suggested retired Appellate Judge George Moran and retired Circuit Judge Joseph Barr of Wood River as jurists from Madison County who might be considered for the appointment.

"But I'm not aware that either of them has expressed any interest in an interim appointment," O'Neill said. "Both are well qualified."

Goldenhersh was elected to the Supreme Court in 1970, defeating then Madison County Circuit Judge Harold Clark of Alton. A Democrat, Goldenhersh was reelected on a nonpartisan basis for another 10-year term in 1980.

The court's tradition, for at least the past 20 years, has been to recall a retired judge to fill vacancies, said William Madden, appellate clerk of the administrative office of the courts. The last four vacancies were filled in that manner, Madden said. In each of those cases, the interim justice didn't seek later election.

Representative payees must account for use of all funds

People who receive Social Security benefits on behalf of another person must now account for the use of the funds. "We periodically check to make sure the money is being spent for the person's use," Oliver M. Holmes, district manager, said.

Representative payees, as they are called, are generally relatives or legal guardians of the beneficiary, but may be a friend or an official at the institution that is caring for the individual.

Representative payees are selected when a person is unable to manage Social Security or SSI (Supplemental Security Income) benefits in his or her own best interest.

They are also selected when based on medical or other evidence, that beneficiaries have a physical or mental impairment that prevents them from managing their benefits.

A representative payee is required to first make sure the beneficiary's day-to-day basic needs are met for food, shelter, clothing and personal items.

Then benefits may be used for any special needs the person has, such as school expenses, rehabilitation, medical expenses, insurance premiums, current payments on a house in which the beneficiary is being paid tax payments, and certain other expenses.

Any money left over after meeting basic and special needs must be saved or invested.

The funds must be kept in an account separate and distinct from the representative payee's and must be clearly identified as the property of the beneficiary. Preferred investments are U.S. savings bonds.

More than 2.5 million representative payees are currently receiving benefits on behalf of 4 million beneficiaries. Anyone who would like to know more about the program may call the East St. Louis Social Security office, 482-9430.

Callers may file an application for benefits change their address, apply for a Social Security card, or schedule an in-office interview by appointment, closing their personal items, above number.

GC native lifts her voice at papal Mass in Texas

By Georgeann McGee
Staff writer

When Pope John Paul II celebrates Mass today in San Antonio, Texas, as part of his North American tour, a Granite City native will be one of the voices raised among a 500-voice papal choir.

"I'm very proud of it," said Nancy Sue Thompson, 48, of Houston, known as Nancy Little when she attended Harris Elementary School in Joliet, Ill. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Little, 2333 Edison Ave.

Despite violent gale winds Thursday that destroyed twin towers designed to hold decorative yellow, red and pink, netting above the altar, the outdoor Sunday Mass was still scheduled. The altar was intact. Hundreds of thousands were expected to attend.

Making the 200-mile trip to San Antonio with Thompson were her husband, Jack, and children, Kevin, 22, and Shawn, 20, who wanted to see her take part in this historic occasion. Each choir member was to be in San Antonio by Friday to rehearse. Choirs members were responsible for their own lodgings and all expenses.

"I've been singing since high school," Thompson said, "and decided to try out for the papal choir when auditions were held in Houston in June. Fifty were selected from that city and Galveston, Texas, dioceses.

Diabetes workshop for nurses in area

Sponsored by the St. Elizabeth Medical Center, the Education Department, "Diabetes: Be Updated...Not Outdated" will meet on six consecutive Thursdays, Sept. 10 through Oct. 15, in Pinal Hall. The workshop was developed for nurses and all health professionals who want to update their knowledge of diabetes care.

"This course will present a comprehensive examination of current concepts in diabetes management with special emphasis on the multidisciplinary team approach to diabetes self-care," said Carol Henrichs, R.N., St. Elizabeth's diabetes educator and program coordinator.

The workshop has been submitted to the Illinois Nurses Association for 14 contact hours and to the American Diabetes Association for continuing education credit for health professionals and $15 for students.

Woman shot in face with BB gun

A Granite City woman was struck in the face with a BB gun pellet Thursday morning as she was backing her car out of her driveway.

Diana Miller, 2413 E. 24th St., said she felt a sharp pain just below her left eye and thought she had been hit by a rock.

"I got just a tiny nick with the little swells," she said Friday. "I did not seek medical treatment."

Other men and women were selected throughout the state.

"I had to sight read music in Spanish and Latin," she said. During the pope's visit, the choir was to sing in Spanish, Latin and English. About 100,000 Mexicans were expected to be among those at the outdoor Mass, and the pope was to speak in Spanish to the large population of Hispanic Catholics in San Antonio.

In June, Thompson received a letter notifying her that she had been accepted. Three were chosen from the St. Thomas Moore parish choir, which she has been a part of for 11 years.

Preparation for the big event included two practices in Houston for the members in that area, while other parish choirs rehearsed in designated dioceses.

All voices were joined together for the first time this weekend as the excitement among the Catholic population gathered momentum during Pope John Paul II's Miami and New Orleans visits.

About 240,000 attended a papal Mass in Miami Friday despite flashes of lightning and heavy rainfall.

Elsa Little was planning to stay indoors today, close to their television set, in hopes of catching a glimpse of their daughter. But to keep things in perspective, Little said Saturday he hoped a Cardinal's Mass wouldn't be playing at the same time.

Perjak

Perjak proposes special permits

that are currently zoned residential but are not expected to be used for residential purposes.

"My thinking is that 2% of the vote would take the politics out of it," Perjak said. She said it would not be difficult for neighborhood residents to defeat a proposed special use permit with the 75% majority requirement.

Perjak's proposal would also include a provision requiring a site plan along with special use petition.

"They have to know to bring in a site plan to say exactly what it (the business) is," Perjak said. She said her proposal would not rezone any property and would only grant temporary permits. Under the temporary permits, if a business failed to use the property within a set time, the property would revert back to residential use.

"It's not a permanent rezoning," Perjak said. She said the minimum area requirement would remain.

Perjak said she has been against the use of "spot zoning" but considered the proposal a temporary measure to make better use of vacant land while the council takes up the issue of residential and commercial zoning.

The city has hired a temporary employee to research zoning sometimes conflicting zoning classifications in the city. Worth then said the city needs to redraw city zoning maps to clarify city zoning classifications.

A controversial proposal before the council to reclassify a block of Johnson Road, from Wabash Avenue to the Metro East Sanitary District drainage ditch, to neighborhood commercial from residential use was withdrawn.

Property owners within the area, several of whom have been turned down for rezoning because of the minimum area requirement, could petition the council and the commission for a special use permit if Perjak's proposal is adopted.

City Attorney Mark Goldenberg was instructed to draft an ordinance for the council's consideration.

Plan commission vote questioned

The office building is in a block of Johnson Road that is zoned for residential use. It contains several businesses that are listed as "non-conforming" structures. They were in the zone before the city's zoning map was adopted in 1979. The map designates the area residential.

Theis and 7th Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen, chairman of the City Council's Zoning, Planning and Annexation Committee, have proposed creating a small business district in the area.

Taken as a whole, the area would qualify for rezoning with council approval, but individual parcels would not qualify because they did not meet the minimum size requirement.

Some area residents oppose reclassification and have formed a group, the Clark-Mercer Neighborhood Confederation, to fight it.

Sandra Crites, spokeswoman of the group, said the rezoning request went "beyond the letter of the law" and should be voided.

Home, remodeling show brims with attractions

The seventh annual Fall Home & Remodeling Show sponsored by the Home Builders Association will be Sept. 16 through 20 at the Convention Center, St. Louis.

There will be more than 300 exhibits, covering the full range of products for the home.

Ideas for room additions will abound from screened-in rooms and greenhouses to bedrooms and solariums with thermal windows. One dramatic display, by Unique Homes and Pates, will consist of a 30-by-20 foot bedroom, sitting room, and luxurious bath area where landscaping flows from indoors to outdoors by means of glass walls.

Several companies will feature log homes. One of them, Coachman Homes, will bring a manufactured home with cedar log siding. Information on them will be included in next week's Journal preview.

Cruse considers new comptroller

Had Warfield been elected mayor or not, it is unknown whether he would have retained Miklovic, Warfield declined comment.

The concern of out-of-town voters who could be fired after an election is the same concern shared by other appointees, Cruse said.

"This is the mayor's appointment along with the other officers of the city," Cruse said. "It's been here forever."

"I'm not saying it's the best way, but it's the responsibility of the mayor to appoint professional people. In Miklovic's case, he said the appointment would have been crazy to replace him."

MacTaggart, who lives at 3227 Maryville Road, said politics do not concern him.

"I come from a public accounting background and public accounting will always be there," MacTaggart said.

Cruse said he and aldermen sometimes disagreed with Miklovic.

"The reason he antagonized a lot of people is that 90 percent of the time he was right," Cruse said.

"He was a brilliant man," Cruse said. "We were lucky to have had him."

Jeanne Simon to speak

Jeanne Simon, wife of U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, will be guest speaker at a fund-raising dinner for Simon on Thursday evening, Sept. 17, at Highland, the former publisher of the Troy-Granite City area in the state legislature.

Simon is running for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States.

The event will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Illinois 143, Highland, and will begin with a social hour (cash bar) at 6:30 p.m., with a dinner to follow at 7:30.

Jeanne Hurley Simon and the senator were married April 21, 1960. She is originally from Wilmette, Ill., and is an attorney who served in the Illinois House of Representatives from 1957 to 1961. They met while both were serving in the house, and became the first husband-wife team in the history of the Illinois General Assembly.

The Simons have two children, Sheila and Martin. Their family home is now in Makanda, near Carbondale.

In 1948, at age 19, Paul Simon left Dana College to purchase a weekly newspaper in Troy, Ill. He became the youngest editor-publisher in the nation.

Simon used the paper, the Troy Tribune, to help expose syndicate gambling connections with government in Madison County.

The fund-raiser is being sponsored by the Troy Democratic Women's Club and friends of Paul Simon. All proceeds will qualify for matching federal funds for the Simon for President Campaign, a spokesman said.

Tickets are still available at a minimum donation of $40 each and may be ordered by mail and picked up at the door on the night of the event.

Persons may send a check or money order to Paul Simon for President, P.O. Box 181, Troy, Ill. 62294-0181 or call to order tickets at 674-7886, 667-3111, 667-0662 or 344-6251.

New associate judge selected

Ellar Duff-Williams, 38, Alton, has been chosen to replace Clayton R. Williams, Alton, as a Madison County associate judge. They are unrelated; both are black.

Duff-Williams will become the second woman judge in the Third Circuit, serving with Judge Lola Maxx.

Williams is retiring. His successor was selected in voting by the eight circuit judges.

Mrs. Duff-Williams, who is divorced and has two children, will begin her new duties Oct. 5. A staff attorney for six years at the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation in Alton, she has been active in domestic and custody cases as well as divorce work.

Simon asks 'war powers' trigger to limit Persian Gulf ship build-up

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., has gone to court with other lawmakers to invoke the War Powers Act in the military buildup in the Persian Gulf.

He says the introduction of U.S. warships to back up the reflagging of Kuwaiti oil tankers is another example of "letting military policy become foreign policy."

Simon, former chairman of the Congressional Arms Control and Foreign Policy Caucus, called the reflagging decision "an unfocused and increasingly dangerous step that threatens to lead to deeper and deeper involvement in the Iran-Iraq war and an escalation of tension in the region."

He said newly disclosed Pentagon plans to order more mine-sweeping ships to the Persian Gulf, to create a special command to take charge of the growing U.S. military presence in the area, and to recommend "imminent danger pay" for service personnel in the region are further evidence that the administration is skirting the intent of the War Powers Act.

The Illinois lawmaker is one of three senators and more than 100 members of Congress whose lawsuit would force the White House to seek congressional approval for the Persian Gulf build-up in keeping with the 1973 War Powers law.

Western Europe and Japan are much more reliant than the U.S. on oil shipped through the gulf, Simon said. "If freedom of navigation is the issue, then strong international action is the answer. Instead, we are making 11 Kuwaiti tankers the issue," he added.

In a suit filed Aug. 6 in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, Simon and other lawmakers argue that the entry of three U.S. warships into the Persian Gulf on July 22 to escort two reflagged Kuwaiti tankers should have triggered the provisions of the War Powers Act, requiring White House and congressional agreement to keep U.S. armed forces in hostile situations longer than 60 days.

The act directs the President to report to congressional leaders within 48 hours of the introduction of U.S. armed forces "into hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by circumstances." Within 60 days after the filing of a report, the forces cannot remain deployed without congressional authorization.

The lawsuit asks the court to direct the President to invoke the act, triggering the 60-day period after which Congress must consent.

'Born in East L.A.' dies on movie screen

BORN IN EAST L.A. — Comedy with Cheech Marin who's picked up in an immigration raid and sent across the border into Mexico where the price for a ticket home comes mighty high.

With Paul Rodriguez, Jan-Michael Vincent, Daniel Stern and Kamala Lopez.

Rated R. (Vulgarity, language).

The names of comedians Cheech and Chong have sold a lot of movie tickets in recent years. Cheech Marin and Tommy Chong were the kings of drug-related humor. They used to be a big draw.

The key phrase is "used to be."

The film industry's concern over the rise of drug abuse has caused it to become a leading opponent of the problem. So much for the acting careers of the Bud Abbott and Lou Costello of cocaine.

So Marin has branched out on his own with a far different kind of film comedy called "Born in East L.A.," a much gentler brand of humor that is based on Marin's hit music video parody of the same title.

The story, about an innocent American car stereo installer who is mistaken for an illegal alien and shipped back to Mexico, is good-natured enough but seriously lacking the manic mayhem that made his previous films so popular with a certain segment of the movie-going public.

Although there is a lot of potential in the film, it is hardly ever fully realized. The laughs seem overly plotted instead of free-flowing. Marin is uncharacteristically respectable.

"Born in East L.A." tries to put forth a serious message about the plight of migrant laborers from Mexico and the poverty that illegally propels them into the United States. But this motion picture is a poor vehicle in which to drive home this point. Marin's character, Rudy Robles, is a likable guy. But Marin plays him with an air of such innocent stupidity that the "message" gets lost in the silliness.

Jan-Michael-Vincent appears briefly in a nothing role as a rude immigration official. The role is so insignificant that it's hard to make me wonder just how hard up for work Vincent might be these days.

"Born in East L.A." has a solid cast of capable supporting actors. There are even a few moments of agreeable laughter, but it isn't enough, in my opinion, to merit a recommendation.

One additional note: Universal Studios refrained from screening "Born in East L.A." in advance for critics. That is usually a sign the studio is concerned that they have a turkey on their hands.

In the case of "Born in East L.A.," their concerns are justified.

Frank Hunter

The humor of Cheech Marin (who appears in "Born in East L.A." without his partner Tommy Chong), is allowed to run rampant in this witless and obnoxious chronicle lampooning the Mexico-United States illegal immigration difficulties.

What amazed me is that despite the number of nitwits involved in this project, not one of them is even momentarily attractive.

Marin wrote and directed "Born in East L.A." with a role tailored to his dubious talents, that of an American citizen who forgets to carry proof of citizenship and finds himself broke and deported to Mexico. South of the border he is humiliated and abused by a couple of Tijuana jailhouse guards and goon prisoners, an immigration official (Jan-Michael Vincent), and border control officials who roam the hills looking for runaway Mexicans.

The sophomoric humor is carried off to a high decibel level with Marin fuming at his sudden run of bad luck. He curses the day he was born and shrieks at telephone operators who demand money he hasn't got to make a call home to a relative who's only half there, playing the stereo so loud he can't hear Marlin's pleas for help.

A majority of the action takes place in Tijuana, where Marin finds work hustling customers inside one of those saloons promising all manner of erotic delights along with cheap booze. The comedy premise is insane, insane and tiresome, with Marin barely surviving by his wits. He endures the torments of pig-like homosexuals in his jail cell and later becomes involved with a Mexican girl who looks half his age (Kamala Lopez), but somehow finds him charming.

Marin also helps a middle-aged woman rejoin her family in a single act of generosity during his south-of-the-border sojourn that does not redeem an otherwise dismal farce.

The tedious characters running amok are vile, slovenly, and grotesque. Only the most tenacious Marin fan sitting through this imbecile enterprise is likely to come away convinced that being mentally mauled in a movie theater somehow stretches the soul.

DIRTY DANCING — Patrick Swayze, Cynthia Rhodes, Jennifer Grey, Jerry Orbach, Jack Weston and Charles "Honi" Coles revisit the early 1960s in a film that chronicles the Kennedy era and widening generation gap that changed the face of America's political, social and sexual culture.

Rated PG-13. (Language, sexual situations).

Harry Hamann

I can just hear it now. A teen-ager is about to go out the front door of their house. Before leaving, the kid yells,

"Hey dad, I'm going to the movies. I'll be back in a couple of hours."

"What are you going to see," questions dad.

"Dirty Dancing," replies the teen.

Now I ask you. What would you think?

In the annals of misnamed movies, "Dirty Dancing" is a classic. That's not to say the movie doesn't have some redeeming values. In fact, it does. The film offers quite a bit in the way of entertainment and good acting. But its title is the pits.

Little Jennifer Grey, the petite and talented daughter of film and stage star Joel Grey, is sensitive and convincing playing a young Jewish girl who experiences her first serious brush with love while vacationing at a Catskill mountains resort hotel. You may remember her from "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" when she played Matthew Broderick's sister. Grey is the best reason to see this film.

Patrick Swayze is the worst reason. He plays an amoral dance instructor from the wrong side of the tracks who preys on Grey's innocence. In this film, Swayze saves his best acting for the dance floor. Swayze delivers some great lines in "Dirty Dancing." For instance, he says, "The reason people treat me like nothing is because I am nothing."

Well, "Dirty Dancing" looks at 17-year-old "Baby" Houseman (Jennifer Grey) who vacations with her family at a Catskill mountains resort in 1963 when

"social dancing" was rapidly turning into a syncretized sexiness so erotic and exhilarating that it scandalized the older generation.

"Dirty Dancing" is not a great movie but it has pleasant moments, along with several furious dance routines smartly choreographed by Kenny Ortega from John Morris' lively score.

And most of the people are likable, especially Grey and Swayze, who strike some nice sparks as the lovers.

There is a sub-plot about an abortion involving Swayze's "regular" girl friend (and frequent dance partner.) The element is an intrusion to the film more than a good story element — it doesn't move the film along.

"Dirty Dancing" also features Broadway and film star Jerry Orbach and the talented character actor Jack Weston.

The rating for "Dirty Dancing" is PG-13 for language and, you guessed it, some almost erotic dancing. I can only recommend this film for the work of Grey, who I think will continue to emerge as one of Hollywood's brightest young stars.

"social dancing" was rapidly turning into a syncretized sexiness so erotic and exhilarating that it scandalized the older generation.

"Dirty Dancing" is not a great movie but it has pleasant moments, along with several furious dance routines smartly choreographed by Kenny Ortega from John Morris' lively score.

And most of the people are likable, especially Grey and Swayze, who strike some nice sparks as the lovers.

There is a sub-plot about an abortion involving Swayze's "regular" girl friend (and frequent dance partner.) The element is an intrusion to the film more than a good story element — it doesn't move the film along.

"Dirty Dancing" also features Broadway and film star Jerry Orbach and the talented character actor Jack Weston.

The rating for "Dirty Dancing" is PG-13 for language and, you guessed it, some almost erotic dancing. I can only recommend this film for the work of Grey, who I think will continue to emerge as one of Hollywood's brightest young stars.

Warriors take the first round

Round one goes to Granite City. Round two comes up on Sept. 20. Round three could be Nov. 3.

The heavyweight fight in question is the one of soccer variety between the Warriors and the Collinsville Kahoks. Bragging rights for the first two weeks of the season have moved to Granite City after the Warriors' 2-1 win at Collinsville's Football Bowl on Thursday.

For many years, at least since the turn of the decade, this has been The Game in this part of the state. Whichever one of these teams came out on top usually ended up at the state tournament. More often than not, they came back with the big hardware.

Granite City South made winning state a nasty habit (at least to the rest of the state) from 1976-80. When they were finally bumped off in 1981...Aha! Finally someone from the north would win. Or so the bigwigs in the north thought — and hoped. No dice. The Kahoks grabbed the brass ring.

The Warriors made one more victory lap in 1982 and went to state in 1983. Only Alton broke up the Collinsville-Granite City reign with a trip to state in 1984, but the Kahoks returned for a second-place finish in 1985 and the title last year.

Everyone seems to be jumping on Belleville West's wagon early this year. The Maroons got a 1-1 tie at Collinsville on Tuesday. But they will have to prove over the long haul they can match the Kahoks and Warriors.

As for those two, the rivalry is still there, but both coaches predictably try to play it down.

"I think the rivalry has peaked, leveled off and now it's not such a big thing," said Kahok coach Jim Stranz.

"Everything is a little different (Baker) and me maybe has been played up too much."

"We have had some frenzied, crazy moments with them in the past," said Baker. "It didn't seem quite like that tonight. But the players still look at it as a big game."

The home-field advantage has not been a big item in recent years. Thursday's game marked the third straight year the Warriors have won at the Kahoks' bandbox.

"We sometimes feel a little crowded in here ourselves," Stranz said. "I think we have better luck with Granite City at their place."

"It takes a little luck to win here," Baker said. "And we got some tonight. But they still have a very talented team."

The Football Bowl is the Wrigley Field of area high school playthings. It's cozy, ancient and generally a fun place to watch a sporting event. There are light poles and wires in everybody's way. The old ivy on the stadium bowl configuration and the fans are very close to the action.

Thursday evening's fizzy and gloomy skies only seemed to add to the flavor. But, as seems inevitable with Wrigley Field in a couple of years, the Kahok football and soccer teams seem destined to move to new, more spacious surroundings in perhaps as early as next year.

"These things seem to move in stages," Stranz said of the work on a new field. "We're not sure where they are right now. As far as I know, we could be back in here next year."

Thursday was my first trip into the Football Bowl, although I have driven by it many times. There really is a good atmosphere there for high school sporting events. I hope it's not my last trip there.

Chip off the old block

The Kahoks were leading 1-0 until they were snuffed out with a bad case of Adamitis.

Troy Adamitis scored two goals off picture-perfect restarts by team captains Jeff Grote and Kirk Mills. Baker has had good luck with players named Adamitis in recent years. Big brother Todd was an All-American for the Warriors last year and is now a starter at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio.

Besides being the spitting image of his brother, Troy handles himself in a very mature manner, a trait Baker admired in Todd as well.

Since he is just a sophomore, Troy has a chance to make his mark in the Granite City scoring records. He has four this year, with all of them coming in classic sniper fashion. Adamitis has positioned himself directly in front of the opponent's goal and directed in some nice set pieces.

He's a dandy, just like his big brother. And older brother Tom was also a football and baseball standout in high school.

Adamitis' pair trumps Kahoks

COLLINSVILLE — This game will probably be long forgotten by the first week of November, but Granite City fans can feel pretty good right now.

Behind Troy Adamitis' two picture-perfect goals off of restarts in the third quarter, the Warriors came from behind for a 2-1 win over the defending state champion Collinsville Kahoks at the Football Bowl.

"I wish we had played a little better than we did," said Warriors coach Gene Baker. "But we did enough things well to come away with a win."

One of the best things they did was remembering to bring Adamitis along. The sophomore forward again showed that he is a sniper extraordinaire with his third and fourth goals of the young season.

Both of them were beauties that came right off free kicks deep in Collinsville territory. The Warriors trailed 1-0 after Joe Reininger, the Kahoks' premier player, had shoved a rebound past Matt Krevovich a little more than four minutes into the third quarter.

But at 52:33, Jeff Grote teed up a free kick from the far right wing. It went directly toward the net and Adamitis executed a perfect flick-on header past Kahok keeper Just Grove to tie the score. That really seemed to be it for the Kahoks, who never seriously threatened to score after that.

Herb Heaton had one chance that was stopped by Grove, but the Warriors forced a free kick right near the end line about 10 yards to the left of the Collinsville goal. Kirk Mills sent it in front and Adamitis slammed it home for the winner with eight seconds left in the third quarter.

"Those are plays we work on quite a bit in practice," Adamitis said of the restarts. "It was a little bit of a surprise, but we were ready to play."

It was a physical game as usual between the long-time rivals, but without the nastiness that sometimes appeared in the past. The Warriors committed 41 fouls to 31 by the Kahoks.

DANGEROUS PLAY: The Warriors proved to be quite dangerous on free kicks like this one by Kirk Mills on Thursday. Troy Adamitis scored both goals off of restarts.

"It was still physical with both teams going very hard to the ball," said Kahok coach Jim Stranz. "But as far as some of the other stuff that has gone on in the past, I don't see it happening anymore. I'm tired of all that Mickey Mouse stuff."

"There were a few hard-hitting moments, but that will happen any time two rivals play on such a small field.

"We were just a step short in the fourth quarter and Granite City was putting us in that position," Stranz said. "They might have something to prove after last year. Everyone is aiming for us because we won last year, but we aren't the same team. We are very young."

The win left the Warriors at 2-0 in the Southwestern Conference and 3-1 overall. The loss was the first for the Kahoks, who were 2-1-2, but 0-1-1 in league play. They came away without a win in their two home games this week with their stiffest competition in the conference — the Warriors and Belleville West (a 1-1 tie on Tuesday).

Stars nip SIUE JV on Kowalski's goal

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Little of Granite City Campus beat the big boys from SIUE in soccer on Thursday.

Well, they didn't actually beat the Cougar varsity squad. But the Stars did score a 1-0 victory over SIUE's junior varsity team, a team made up of many players who will see some varsity playing time for the Cougars this year and certainly in the years to come.

"I've got a roll," said Stars coach Larry Petri, who watched his team rise to 3-0 with the win. "We looked at this game as a confidence-builder. Obviously, they have some talent on their squad."

Since the Cougars are relying heavily on freshmen this year, there is a good chance players like Collinsville's Keith Brooke and Edwardsville's Tom Fayol — who both played at GCC on Thursday — will see action with Ed Huneke's varsity team before the year is up. But the Stars stood tall, coming on in the second half to claim the win.

Rob Kowalski, a freshman midfielder from Triad High School, was responsible for the only net-denting of the overcast afternoon. The Stars got a free kick, which sophomore Pat Phillips took to the left of the Cougar goal from about 30 yards out. He sent it to the far side and Kowalski went to the net, beat everyone to the ball and directed it past SIUE keeper Tony DeFilippis at the 11:25 mark.

"It was a nice goal," Petri said. "But we have a chance to put it on ice later. We still need to get better at finishing plays."

In the final 18 minutes, with the Cougars pressing forward for the equalizer, the Stars had a couple of semi-breakaways, but got no results. Tom Bute broke behind the defense and was robbed on a great save by DeFilippis. Dave Stosberg got the rebound and tried to nudge it behind the keeper, only to have it knocked away by a defender on the goal line.

"It was a great save by the keeper on the first shot," Petri said. "But if the second guy had buried the ball instead of trying to tap it, in he would have scored."

Sean Fronabarger also had a couple of near-breaks in the final minute, but was unable to get a good shot off.

Meanwhile, the Cougars had a couple of chances at the other end, but they were squandered. The task, particularly on Fayol's shot with seven minutes to go that appeared labeled for the upper left-hand corner. Clynes tipped it over the goal.

Clynes also appeared to be quite proficient at punching the ball out of the danger area on crossing passes and corner kicks.

"Give coach (Mike) England the credit on that," Petri said. "He's been working with him."

England was the varsity keeper for the Cougars the past couple of years and is now Petri's assistant.

The Cougars had most of the better chances in the first half, but play was relatively slow compared to the second half.

"We talked about things at halftime," Petri said. "We were playing a little timid in the early part of the game. But we came out and forced some of the action in the second half."

"This one should help us get ready for our conference play. SIUE always has a quality program, and it was good to see how we competed with them."

NOTES: The Stars faced Pat McBride and his Forest Park team in the conference opener at home on Saturday. They travel to East Central for another MCCCAC game on Monday. The Cougars outshot the Stars 11-6 and had four corner kicks to none for the Stars. Clynes, however, made six saves. Granite City committed 15 fouls to 11 for SIUE.

"I've said all along that Granite City and Belleville West would be the teams to watch," Stranz said.

There were a few sprinkles early in the game and the match was played on a field, which made for some unsure footing. Heaton had the Warriors' best chances early and Jason Astrakus had a good low shot stopped by Krevovich late in the quarter. Grove then couldn't handle Grote's long free kick in the final minute of the quarter which resulted in an anxious moment near the goal. Grove had a similar problem when he tried to smother a crossing pass in the second quarter, but nothing came of it.

But it was Krevovich's inability to hang on to a long shot that resulted in the first goal at 44:21. Scott Siegel made the shot, but the rebound bounced out and Reininger got their first to hammer it in for his sixth goal of the season.

"The wet field was making it harder for them to hang on to the ball," Baker said. "But even on that play we froze a little. Our guys were closest when the rebound came out."

The Warriors kept their cool after the goal and let the restart magic of Grote, Mills and Adamitis do its stuff late in the period.

"They force a lot of those dead balls with their experience," Stranz said.

Play got more physical as the Kahoks tried to get the equalizer in the final 20 minutes, but it was the Warriors who came closest to scoring. Adamitis was almost able to don a hat with his third goal, but it grazed the far post from a sharp angle.

"I think he thought he had one there," Baker said. "Troy really came through for us tonight. It wasn't only the two goals. He did a lot of other things that moves well and is a good worker."

"Even though we have a lot of seniors, we're still green in varsity experience. Our backfield came alive tonight and we started to settle down and play better as we went along. We're learning as we go."

NOTES: The Warriors outshot the Kahoks 14-6 and held a 4-1 edge in corner kicks. Granite City hosted Cahokia on Saturday.

Garland takes GC wrestlers

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Bill Schmitt and Walt Whitaker were quite a pair. Mike Garland is hoping someday to make it three of a kind.

Garland, 33, was named the new wrestling coach at Granite City High School at a District 4 meeting on Wednesday. He replaces Whitaker, the Warrior coach the past two years. Whitaker succeeded the legendary Schmitt, who won more than 600 dual meets in more than 30 years.

"It's just a tremendous honor to get the job that was held by those two for so long," Garland said. "I look at it as a tremendous challenge."

Garland has been a teacher in the Madison School District for 11 years, but will be moving over to GCIS on Monday. He will be a physical education teacher to go with his coaching duties. Garland was an assistant to Schmitt at the high school from 1981-83 and assisted Whitaker the past three years. Whitaker coached at Granite City Campus in 1984 and was the Warrior coach the past two seasons.

"This is a job I have thought about for a long time," said Garland, a 1971 graduate of Granite City Community High School. "The knowledge I gained under Coach Schmitt and Coach Whitaker is going to help me a great deal. I think both of them should be in some sort of hall of fame."

Whitaker had a record of 217-24-4, including 10 years as the varsity wrestling coach at Granite City North High School. He

Tigers once again tame Warrior golfers

NICOLE URIOSTE returns a shot during Thursday's match against Collinsville, which the Warriors lost 5-2.

Those darn Tigers.

The Warrior golf team just can't seem to scale the mountain that is the Edwardsville squad. The Tigers scored a five-stroke victory over the Warriors at the Arlington Golf Course on Thursday, handing Granite City its first loss of the year.

Edwardsville shot a 148 to the Warriors' 153, but Russ Chappell's team scored a victory over Belleville Albion to take a 7-1 record into Saturday's Granite City Scramble. The Crusaders scored a 160.

"The kids were obviously upset," Chappell said. "But they still think they can beat them. We'll face them again up in Alton next week."

Rich Stolz, the No. 6 golfer for the Tigers, came through with a 35. Sam Scheibel followed with a 37, while Jay Hepler and Brett Newton both shot 38. Mike Wilkinson, Mike McCormick and Chad Lane all shot 38 for the Warrior, while Mike Edwards and Derek Trant shot 39. David Deke led the Crusaders with a 38.

Kahok netters win

The Warrior girls tennis team fell for the third straight time as they dropped a 5-2 decision to Collinsville at home on Thursday.

pel won their singles matches, but that was all for Granite City. Weekman took a 6-4, 6-0 decision from Wendy Stephens while Dip-pel trimmed Dawn Price 6-0, 6-1.

Nicole Urioste was a 0-6, 6-7 (7-4 in tiebreaker) loser to Charlotte Burnette while Cathy Senderling fell 5-7, 4-6 to Lisa Otero. The Lady Kahoks swept the doubles matches. Heather Lerch and Pam Hildabrandt beat Teresa Isom and Ida Mansoor 6-1, 6-1. Brandi Chrusciller and Dawn Boles topped Christi Holsinger and Jill Griffin 6-1, 6-3; and Charlotte Adams and Chantel White beat Lisa Niemeyer and Tessa Hacke 6-0, 6-0.

The Warriors host Civic Memorial, Roxana and McCluer and Monday, Tuesday and Friday, respectively.

The Madison soccer team was tied 4-4 going into the fourth quarter at home on Thursday, but Mascotah scored three unanswered goals for a 7-1 win.

Clarence Williams, Steve Murrigold and Jerry Gushleit (2) had goals for the Trojans. But Mike Penny got his second of the game on a penalty kick for the gamewinner. Coach Carl Dempsey got his second and third goals to ice it for the Indians.

The Trojans are 1-2 and have three road games this week.

Levin's FG wins for Peru State

Granite City native Brian Levin booted a 36-yard field goal with 18 seconds remaining in regulation to lift Peru State (Neb.) College to a 15-14 season-opening win over Evangel (Mo.) College on Sept. 5.

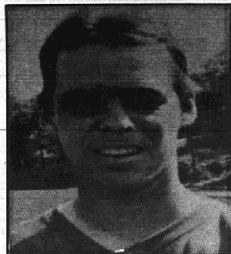

The kick bettered the school record of 32 yards Levin set against Doane College in the final game of the 1985 season.

"I really like being in that position," Levin said. "It's a place-kicker's dream to make the winning field goal. We've only won six games since I've been here, so I'm glad I had the chance to win a game for us."

Levin, a junior, attempted the kick despite a thunderstorm which moved over the field in the final minutes of play. He also had a cross south wind gusting up to 25 miles per hour at his back.

"I knew it hadn't rained long enough to get the ground real wet and cause bad footing," he said. "Last year we played at least four games in the mud, so I was used to it."

Levin's winner came 33 seconds after Evangel took an intentional safety rather than punting into the wind from its own 7, pulling the Bobcats to within 14-12. Following the free kick, the Bobcats drove from their own 48 to the Crusader 39 in three plays, where Levin was called upon with the clock running down and no timeouts left. He knew it was good as soon as he kicked it. "When I looked up I saw it was going right down the middle," he said. "I don't think the wind really helped me much at all."

Levin had had one field goal blocked earlier in the game, but said that was his fault. The 6-0, 200-pounder also averaged 38.5 yards on six punts in his first game in that role.

Another Granite City native, safety Al Prengel, recorded a team-high 10 tackles in the game and had an interception which set up the Bobcats' first score in the second quarter.

YMCA volleyball leagues to meet

The Tri-City Area YMCA will conduct captains meetings for those interested in men's volleyball or co-ed volleyball the week of Sept. 14.

The men's league meeting will be held at 6 p.m. on Sept. 13. Play will be on Tuesday evenings.

The co-ed league meeting will be held at 6 p.m. on Sept. 19. Play will be on Saturday evenings.

Both meetings will be held at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave. The fee is $125 per team. For more information, contact Bob Slate at 876-7200.

Weightlifting class on Saturdays at Y

The Tri-City Area YMCA will be offering instruction in weightlifting for junior high and high school students on Saturdays at noon.

Joey Valencia, the instructor, is an accomplished bodybuilder. He will emphasize strength training for athletics in an eight-week course, which is considered ideal for high school athletes.

Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 876-7200.

then Belleville East visits on Tuesday in conference play. The Warriors travel to Edwardsville for a Wednesday game, although Baker was unsure if the game would be played on the Charles Field at SIUE, as scheduled, or at the new Center Grove complex. Ron O'Sha's played the fourth quarter in goal in the 4-0 win over Alton on Tuesday. His name was left out of the story in Thursday's Press-Record. Randy Chapman played the first half and Krevovich played the third quarter.

Garland

was named an assistant principal at the high school last week.

"I'm used to going around the school in sweats and a T-shirt," Whitaker said of his adjustment to his new post. "But I think Mike will do a great job. He has the experience he needs to handle it."

Garland wrestled as a 118-pounder Schmitt in high school and advanced to state his senior year (1971). He moved on to SIUE where he wrestled for Larry Kristoff's team as a 134- and 142-pounder. The Cougars took third in the NCAA Division II national championships his junior year.

Garland, of course, is familiar with the Warrior wrestlers, who return lettermen like Brent Davis (who went to state as a sophomore), Todd Hutchinson, Gerald Moss, Rich Smallie, Scott Moss, Terry Stanley, Danny Grayson, Jimmy Stout and Tom Reynolds.

"All of them are hard workers and they listen well," Garland said. "It's an advantage having worked with them."

But can Garland place himself on a level with Schmitt and Whitaker?

"I think the best way to find out is to call me back in about 15 years," Garland said. "I appreciate all the things I learned in Madison, but now it's time to start up with something else. I would just like to thank people like Dale Rice, Roger Smith, Pete Robinson, Dick Huff, Bill Schmitt and Walt Wicktaker for all the help they have given me through the years. I also want to thank the Granite City school board and administration for giving me this chance."

As for Whitaker, he won't exactly disappear from the wrestling scene.

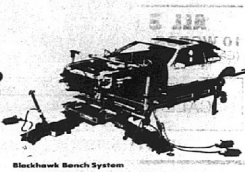

"I'll probably be at all the matches and try to be at practice when I can," he said.
